

future.film.education Self-Study Materials

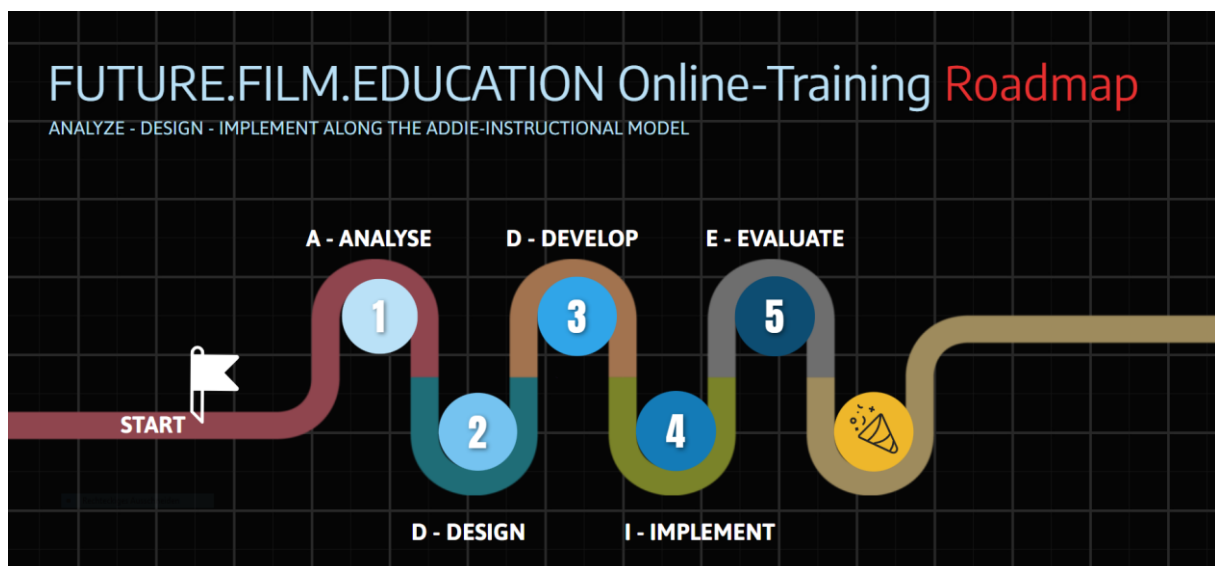

Train the Trainers – Online Teaching Roadmap

We need to continue exploring new models for online teaching, which sustain film schools' artistic, experimental and practice-based approaches to learning. This goes hand in hand with the need to create inventive, inclusive and supportive learning arrangements and materials for students from highly dissimilar backgrounds and with different personal lives.

In the course of our future.film.education project, we carried out an online teaching training workshop from 25th -26th of June 2022 with film, media and art school lecturers from different schools. The workshop intended to focus on the particular needs and problems faced by film schools teachers when adapting practice-based courses to online and blended teaching formats. Another important aspect was the inclusion of diversity aware methods for teaching online. Find the training materials here and feel free to use these in your own trainings.

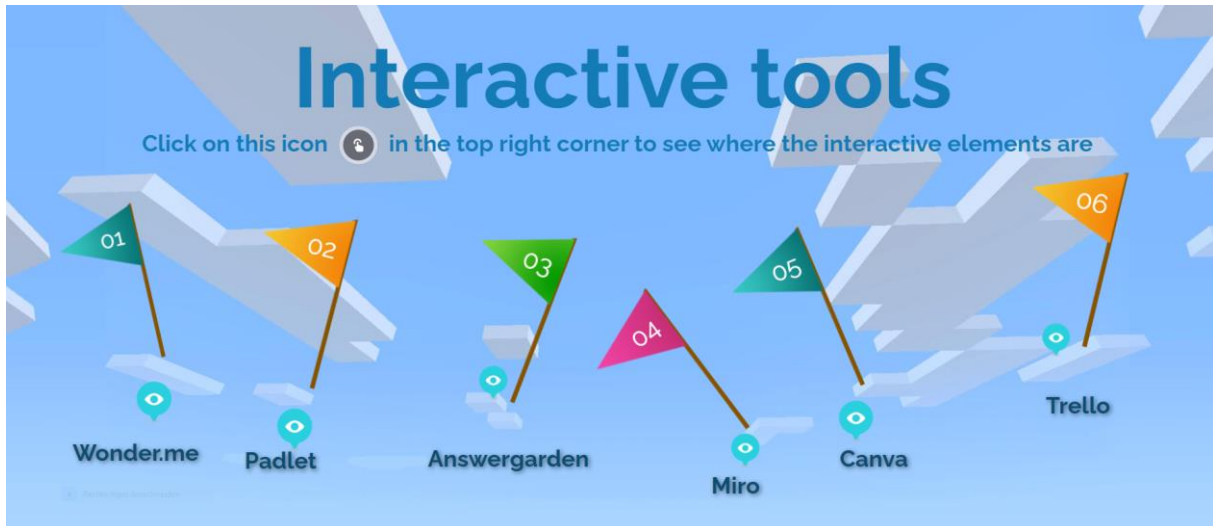

Roadmap & Interactive Tools

For developing your online course you can use the following roadmap as a framework. The roadmap guides you along the ADDIE instructional design model. ADDIE is an acronym for Analyse, Design, Develop, Implement, and Evaluate. It is as a five step method for designing and developing educational programmes. The roadmap image below is interactive. When you click on the numbers, you will find guiding questions to develop your course step by step. Feel free to click yourself through the numbers of our roadmap. To return to the main menu, click on the home icon at the top of the page.

<https://view.genial.ly/620a5ea354082b0011991d3a>

Below you will find a selection of common tools that are used for collaborative work. These tools can be useful platforms for sharing your materials during an online lesson and for your students to work on joint assignments.

<https://view.genial.ly/62b0370f7b2bb800183edb5f>

Course Planner

Feel free to use our Course Planner template when planning your online courses. It can also be used for conceptualising your onsite courses or workshops and clarifying the priorities you wish to set with your course and methods you plan to use.

future.film.education – Last Tuesday- meetup

After completing our online teaching training course in June 2022 the participants wished to continue shaping and staying up to date on the "future" of film education by keeping the exchange alive through virtual as well as, where and when possible, non-virtual meetups.

We therefore established the "future.film.education - Last Tuesday" - meetup.

Every last Tuesday of the month we will meet from 18:00 – 19:30 (CEST) in a casual setting to exchange questions and ideas, inform and keep each other updated, have fun, reflect, make plans and learn from each other.

If you are interested in joining us, please mail our online trainer to receive the login:
Dr. Eva Maria Bäcker | e.baecker@filmschule.de